

The following information outlines the steps we are taking with a confirmed or possible COVID-19 diagnosis, or exposure to someone with a confirmed COVID-19 diagnosis.

Quarantine and Isolation Housing Information

Every student should have a plan for what they will do if they test positive/become ill with COVID-19 and require isolation or are exposed to the virus and require quarantine. Any student who is ill should stay in their room/apartment/home, not go to work or class, consult their personal medical provider, and notify the University Health Center (UHC). Whenever possible, we urge students to quarantine or isolate at home. The University will maintain a number of quarantine and isolation spaces should a student living in university-owned housing need to temporarily relocate during a quarantine or isolation period.
